

Amanda Lacey Skin Care

Amanda Lacey is one of London's best-loved facialists and her carefully created skin care products are a testament to her considerable expertise. Amanda sources top quality ingredients from around the world for her products, which take a gentle approach to skincare. She avoids mineral oils, petroleum products¹ and harsh ingredients but relies on natural oils, which she believes are the best thing for calming sensitive skins. The products are a pleasure to use with light but nourishing textures, potent levels of plant extracts and fragranced only with natural, essential oils. The result is a truly sensorial experience. This is skin care that makes you feel so good you'll want to use every day, to soothe away the day's troubles and grime or as a pleasurable way to awaken skin in the morning.

Amanda Lacey trained as a facialist 17 years ago and still works with clients every week in her Chelsea clinic. She qualified in beauty therapy and cosmetology both in the UK and internationally but has perfected her techniques over years of working with literally hundreds of women. Amanda has become a London beauty icon; she sees clients from all over the world but always remains discrete. Her reputation for excellence is well deserved, she is able to restore skin health, give back a youthful glow and relax the muscles and mind with her famed massage techniques.
